

We don't need wider freeways. We need more mass transit, and safer streets for pedestrians, cyclists, and other non-drivers. Please prioritize other means of transportation that won't kill current and future generations (not to mention wildlife) with pollution.

PS, how does the summary of this bill only include mention of a speed bump study, when the bill also includes funding for much more involved interstate projects costing tens of billions of dollars?

I'm generally in favor of using congestion tolling to reduce traffic volumes during peak hours.
