

If Tina Kotek pardoned her Chief of Staff for rioting and breaking laws last year how can she justify expelling Mike Nearman for simply walking out of the building to appease protestors who were acting within their constitutional right? In the words of Tina Kotek, "every person-including members of my staff-has the right to stand up for what they believe and engage in non-violent resistance". Does this include those who don't agree with you or does the first amendment not apply to everyone? We don't take the dismissal of our first amendment rights lightly. To our fellow members of the GOP, if you vote him out, your constituents will ensure you never have an elected position again. You answer to the people, so humbly remember your place.
