

When a public servant goes beyond failing to protect the lives and ideals of the State he represents and steps into openly endangering his fellow legislators, there is no reasonable recourse but to eject him.