

This measure is long overdue. Now in light of the pandemic and likely health challenges to come from the climate crisis it is essential. Actually we all should have quality health coverage. But certainly working educators should.