

Oregon definitely needs some restriction on the power of the government to mandate laws that are shutting down and damaging small businesses. Using emergency powers to further a political agenda has damaged our Economy anyway that we may never recover from. When we look at states like South Dakota in Florida where they Took a different approach, a more American approach with you allowed to use common sense in deciding how to deal with COVID-19 the results of been much better. These states balance their budget and protect the freedom and liberty of their citizens.
