

So, if I don't have a CHL and I violate one the "zones" my odds are pretty good that I won't be stopped.

Since CHL holders can be identified why would someone bother to renew when along with paying more they get a bonus felony charge and a fine included with the rate increase?

Wouldn't this encourage people to fly under the radar and take their chances? Either way you are considered a criminal if this becomes a law.

I totally support reasonable gun control, but this is not close.
