

Talk About Trees is an essential part of a well rounded education for many Oregon students. The program not only teaches scientific concepts, but encourages students and staff to be wise stewards of our natural resources. Students eagerly look forward to this wonderful opportunity each year. The program is well designed and delivered in an engaging way. Every penny spent on Talk About Trees is a money well invested.