

Growing up in Oregon is synonymous with growing up around forests. Revoking funding from the Forest Resources Institute and Oregon Forest Resources Institute which provides education about those forests at a time of rampant misinformation. If this bill passed it will rob a generation of the knowledge they need to understand, and care for the forests.