BACKGROUND:

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention defines traumatic brain injury (TBI) as a disruption in the normal function of the brain that can be caused by a bump, blow, or jolt to the head, or penetrating head injury. The CDC reports that 223,050 people were hospitalized in 2018 for brain injury, including 16,480 children. People with brain injuries may have impairments related to thinking or memory, movement, sensation (e.g., vision or hearing), or emotional functioning (e.g., personality changes, depression). Brain injuries have lasting effects on individuals, families, and communities.

Senate Bill 1528 establishes a program within the Department of Human Services to provide services to individuals with brain injuries.
