Dear HB 4112,

As a student and a person, black studies or any other class involving race and culture are needed in our state. I've only been in this class for a few months and it's my favorite class i've ever took in highschool. It teaches you so many things and gets deep into some historical people and present people livess and the things they have done or accomplished and talks about the things we don't know about these important people. Not only have we learned about black figures but I have also learned social skills and many other skills that I know I will need to be successful in college and life.

As I'm doing all these activities learning about these people and having discussions I'm having fun and that's hard to come by in many classes. This class is like a family. I've become closer to people I haven't known much and have built some good habits and relationships with my teacher and classmates. We never have a meaningful conversation or time in class were always learning and being productive and i love the people around me and the environment is fun and makes it easy to come to class on time this is not even like a class to me many days when class is about to be over i'm kinda bummed because i was having a good time or learning something i was very interested in and i just think its a crime to not have classes like this open to all schools and students i think this should be a world wide thing but we have to state with are state so lets educate and get it done.

Sincerely,

Jay'Vanni C Sarchi
