I want to be sure the OIC is investing my tax money in a responsible, prudent way, which clearly means getting out of fossil fuels. Fossil fuels are a losing proposition. If we keep investing in them -- as everyone else dumps them --the state could end up with worthless "stranded assets"

The OIC is not good about sharing it's work; this bill requires them to be transparent, so we all know what they are doing with our money. Transparency leads to accountability.

The OIC is a state agency. They should be required to be transparent. Transparency builds trust.
