

Submitter: Chris Devich

On Behalf Of:

Committee: House Committee On Human Services

Measure: HB4079

I vehemently oppose a sales tax to transfer monies from hard working taxpayers to all those who fall below a certain income level, net worth, or any other measure that is put forth. Such an idea is completely irresponsible. EFFECTIVELY administering such a proposal will be a nightmare.

I would much rather come up with ideas where those in need would be able to do certain tasks commensurate with their skills, however menial they might be, in order to earn wages and in turn bolster their self worth. I could support such an idea, but cannot support a transfer of money from those who work to those who choose not to work.