

Submitter: Nathaniel Feyma

On Behalf Of:

Committee: House Committee On Human Services

Measure: HB4079

Existing pilot programs in other nations have so far shown that basic income does not negatively impact job-seeking behavior, and can in fact improve employment figures. Until employers are able or willing to pay a real living wage, basic income can provide dignity and agency to struggling families. I believe that this pilot program is a worthy experiment.