After the abject failure of the OHA to manage the pandemic it is beyond comprehension why we would want to give this bureaucratic nightmare more power than it currently possesses. It is also amazing that the individual in charge of this failure still has his job and is drawing a paycheck. In my day a person who was hired to do a job and didn't perform this job satisfactorily got canned at his first six month performance review. Doesn't government have any similar procedure?. Appears not. As voters should we expect that the next hack appointee in this position will have any more competence that this idiot has exhibited?
