

This was a very bad decision by Oregon voters and should be repealed. It is ridiculous that it is against the law to have alcohol on the streets but not hard drugs. This measure has attracted drug addicts from other states to Portland, and that needs to stop. We have enough. Portland citizens should not have to be exposed to open drug use on our streets. It is a real disincentive for going to downtown. Further real consequences for open drug use and possession such as jail time or other such consequences need to be in place as motivators to get people into treatment. These tickets that the police write now are a real joke and mostly useless. Tolerance and lax drug laws are not getting people into treatment. Real consequences will have a better chance. Measure 110 defied common sense and should be repealed.
