

Measure 110 has been a complete failure. Not only is it failing those struggling with addiction, but it's failing the community as a whole. Unless measure 110 is amended to make treatment compulsory and public drug use illegal then I'd 1000% support it being repealed completely. How are our communities supposed to thrive when rampant drug use is so prevalent. The fact people can be smoking fentanyl right in front of others at public park and there's nothing we can do about it is ridiculous. Measure 110 is the epitome of hoping for the best and not thinking about realistically what would happen. If the legislature does not repeal measure 110 completely and intends to amend, I sure hope that law enforcement has a seat at the table to discuss the amendments and provide insightful feedback about how real life implications based on wording, feasibility of enforcement, etc.
