

Addressing addiction, which consists of mental and physical issues, is outside the expertise of law enforcement. Finding workable solutions for addicts is a process that takes time, collaboration, and specialty-trained professionals. With proper treatment and training, addicts are prepared to rejoin their community and find success. Conversely, incarceration prepares them for more incarceration. It is well past time to break this life-killing cycle!

Suzan Sachdeva
Lincoln Beach