

BM110 is an ideological failure. Please consider drastic changes to the law, simply following common sense.

I'm OK with not routing people through jails and prisons for drug possession. But currently nothing happens at all! No one is calling the "help line", because an addict does not use common sense to guide their actions. That is why they need help.

We need to make possession of small amounts of drugs an arrestable offense again. If someone wants to avoid jail time, they can enter and complete mandatory treatment. This is the "diversion" we all thought we were getting when we voted for this thing.

Please fix this at the very, very soonest opportunity. This is a disgrace.
