

Please note this as a concerned citizen. BM 110 is a fine idea or concept. However... without complete comprehensive execution on the treatment services, the consequences of the concept are too disruptive, harmful.

One camera lens or perspective or entity cannot provide all the solutions because the solutions are not fully known. It feels like a singular camera lens though is in charge of attempting solutions. From my perspective, no one camera lens can make this happen. While trying to figure out the solutions, the interim consequences are horrendous from most any perspective.

I advocate for returning to earlier times when police enforcement of drug charges was not perfect, but did not have the bad ripple effects of the voter approved measure. Successful businesses call this Fast Fail... don't linger if something isn't working and won't work for a long time, but do learn so that incremental improvements can be made over time.
