

I'm a bike commuter because I don't earn much, it's my only exercise I have to get to the office anyway, and my diabetes appreciates it when I do. Fix the roads we previously built and then maintain them. Fund cities' maintenance efforts so I don't fall into potholes in the dark. Ban studded tires to help maintain the newly repaired roads. Fund mass transit sufficiently to make it possible for most people in urban areas to get where they need to go without a car. Convince the governor that tolling lessens problems like traffic congestion, diminishing gas tax revenue, and solvency in general.