

Enough with the freeway expansions! Let's cut that, so we can repair and improve the roads we already have, and then ramp up public transportation as fast as possible. Our built infrastructure cannot sustain the changing climate and the climate is changing in large part due to fossil fuel use. Slower roads, more bicycle lanes and improved safety. More sidewalks, more pedestrian overpasses. Speedy rail and streetcars. Please please please. We cannot keep doubling down on the nightmare of cars. I live in NW Portland and I can walk, bike, bus, streetcar or train it all over the place. It's healthier and easier than driving. It makes it easier for me to go out and spend money in the community. The car stays parked for days at a time. That kind of mobility needs to be expanded. Thank you!

Tom Cole