ISSUES DISCUSSED:

- Provisions of the measure

EFFECT OF AMENDMENT:

-1

Clarifies that the court vacates the guardianship and then enters and order terminating the wardship.

BACKGROUND:

Children in the jurisdiction of a court are called wards of the court (ORS 419B.100). Oregon law allows courts to review, modify, or vacate guardianship orders (ORS 419B.368) if the court determines to do so would be in the child's best interests, the conditions and circumstances giving rise to the establishment of the guardianship have been ameliorated, and the parent is able and willing to adequately care for the child. When modifying or vacating a guardianship, the court must consider at a minimum: the child's emotional and developmental needs; their need to maintain existing attachments and relationships and to form attachments and relationships; the child's health and safety; and the ward's wishes.

Senate Bill 208 would continue a court's wardship if a permanent guardianship has been established until the court vacates the warship or the ward becomes 21 years of age.
