BACKGROUND:

According to the National Institute on Deafness and Other Communication Disorders (NIDCD), approximately 15 percent of American adults aged 18 and over report some trouble hearing, including over 28 million adults who could benefit from using hearing aids. In 2007, the Legislative Assembly passed Senate Bill 491 requiring health insurers to cover bilateral cochlear implants whenever the policy provides for reimbursement of a cochlear implant. In 2018, House Bill 4104 updated this coverage requirement to require health benefit plan coverage of medically appropriate bilateral cochlear implants, including coverage of implant programming. That measure also required coverage of ear molds, replacement batteries, and other hearing aid supplies and services.

House Bill 2994 modifies the health insurance coverage requirements for hearing-related items and services.
