BACKGROUND:

Oregon's mineral production is overseen by the Mineral Land Regulation and Reclamation program which works to minimize impacts of natural resource extraction and to maximize opportunities for land reclamation. The land-use authority (most commonly the county) determines the eligibility for a parcel of land to be mined and the secondary beneficial use to which the land is returned upon completion of mining.

House Bill 3440 would allow counties with a population between 200,000 and 650,000 to distributed receipts from sales of certain mineral rights or certain lands through alternative mechanisms.
