BACKGROUND:

The Oregon workforce development system refers to the group of state agencies, local workforce development boards, and community-based organizations in Oregon that provide job placement and training for youth and adults, and employment-related services for veterans, people with disabilities, migrant farm workers, limited English speakers, and other Oregonians in need of special assistance. The system also serves employers by providing job listings, applicant testing and screening, and labor market information. The Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act (WIOA) is designed to help job seekers succeed in the labor market by providing them with access to employment, education, training, and support services and to match employers with the skilled workers they need to compete in the global economy. The Higher Education Coordinating Commission (HECC) administers several WIOA programs, including the Adult and Dislocated Worker Program and Youth Workforce Programs. The HECC distributes workforce funding, provides fiscal oversight and accountability for workforce programs, and provides policy direction and technical assistance to state and local workforce partners, staff, and other stakeholders statewide.

The State Workforce and Talent Development Board (WTDB) convenes system agencies and stakeholders, provides oversight to the system, and promotes the alignment and integration of services and resources to provide effective solutions to businesses and individuals for their workforce needs. Oregon has nine business-led local workforce development boards that develop strategic plans, convene and align stakeholders, identify strategies by industry sector, and oversee workforce development services in their area.

House Bill 3306 A requires an entity that receives any state or federal WIOA funds to establish wage standards for individuals who participate in a program administered by the entity, if, under the program, the entity provides individuals with paid work experience.
