(1) Except as provided in subsection (2) of this section, a covered employer may require [an eligible employee] a covered individual to give the employer written notice at least 30 days before commencing family and medical leave. The oral notice required by this subsection may be given by any other person on behalf of the [employee] covered individual taking the leave.

(4) Except as provided in this subsection, if the [employee] covered individual fails to give notice as required by subsections (1) and (3) of this section, the employer may reduce the total period of family and medical leave authorized by ORS 659A.162 by three weeks, and the [employee] covered individual may be subject to disciplinary action under a uniformly applied policy or practice of the employer. 659A.168. (1) Except as provided in subsection (2) of this section, a covered employer may require medical verification from a health care provider of the need for the leave if the leave is for a purpose described in ORS 659A.159 (1)(b) to (d) (e) other than to care for a child who requires home care due to the closure of the child’s school or child care provider as a result of a public health emergency. If [an employee] a covered individual is required to give notice under ORS 659A.165 (1), the employer may require that medical verification be provided by the [employee] covered individual before the leave period commences. If the [employee] covered individual commences family and medical leave without prior notice pursuant to ORS 659A.165 (2), the medical verification must be provided by the [employee] covered individual within 15 days after the employer requests the medical verification. The employer may require [an employee] a covered individual to obtain the opinion of a second health care provider designated by the employer, at the employer’s expense. If the opinion of the second health care provider conflicts with the medical verification provided by the [employee] covered individual, the employer may require the two health care providers to designate a third health care provider to provide an opinion at the employer’s expense. The opinion of the third health care provider shall be final and binding on the employer and [employee] covered individual. In addition to the medical verifications provided for in this subsection, an employer may require subsequent medical verification on a reasonable basis.

(2) A covered employer may require medical verification for leave taken for the purpose described in ORS 659A.159 (1)(d) and (e), other than to care for a child who requires home care due to the closure of the child’s school or child care provider as a result of a public health emergency, only after [an employee] a covered individual has taken more than three days of leave under ORS 659A.159 (1)(d) or (e) during any one-year period. Any medical verification required under this subsection must be paid for by the covered employer. An employer may not require [an employee] a covered individual to obtain the opinion of a second health care provider for the purpose of medical verification required under this subsection.

(3) A covered employer may request verification for the need for leave for the purpose in ORS 659A.159 (1)(d) to care for a child who requires home care due to the closure of the child’s school or child care provider as a result of a public health emergency. A request for verification may include a request for:

(a) The name of the child requiring home care;
(b) The name of the school or child care provider that is subject to closure;
(c) A statement from the [employee] covered individual that no other family member of the child is willing and able to care for the child; and
(d) A statement that special circumstances exist that require the [employee] covered individual to provide home care for the child during the day, if the child is older than 14 years of age.

(4) Subject to the approval of the health care provider, the [employee] covered individual taking family and medical leave for a serious health condition of the [employee] covered individual or a family member of the [employee] covered individual shall make a reasonable effort to schedule medical treatment or supervision at times that will minimize disruption of the employer’s operations.

SECTION 9. ORS 659A.171 is amended to read:

659A.171. (1) After returning to work after taking family and medical leave under the provisions of ORS 659A.150 to 659A.186, [an eligible employee] a covered individual is entitled to be restored to the position of employment held by the [employee] covered individual when the leave commenced if that position still exists, without regard to whether the employer filled the position with a replacement worker during the period of family and medical leave. If the position held by the [employee] covered individual at the time family and medical leave commenced no longer exists, the [employee] covered individual is entitled to be restored to any available equivalent position with equivalent employment benefits, pay and other terms and conditions of employment. If an equivalent position is not available at the job site of the [employee’s] covered individual’s former position, the [employee] covered individual may be offered an equivalent position at a job site located within 20 miles of the job site of the [employee’s] covered individual’s former position.

(2) Except for employee benefits used during the period of leave, the taking of family and medical leave under ORS 659A.150 to 659A.186 shall not result in the loss of any employment benefit accrued before the date on which the leave commenced.

(3) This section does not entitle any [employee] covered individual to:

(a) Any accrual of seniority or employment benefits during a period of family and medical leave;

(b) Any right, benefit or position of employment other than the rights, benefits and position that the [employee] covered individual would have been entitled to had the [employee] covered individual not taken the family and medical leave.

(4)(a) Before restoring [an employee] a covered individual to a position under subsection (1) of this section, an employer may require that the [employee] covered individual receive certification from the [employee’s] covered individual’s health care provider that the [employee] covered individual is able to resume work. Certification under this subsection may only be required pursuant to a uniformly applied practice or policy of the employer.

(b) This subsection does not affect the ability of an employer to require [an employee] a covered individual during a period of family and medical leave to report periodically to the employer on the [employee’s] covered individual’s status and on the [employee’s] covered individual’s intention to return to work.

(5)(a) Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this subsection, benefits are not required to continue to accrue during a period of family and medical leave unless continuation or accrual is required under an agreement of the employer and the [employee] covered individual, a collective bargaining agreement or an employer policy.

(b) If the [employee] covered individual is provided group health insurance, the [employee] covered individual is entitled to the continuation of group health insurance coverage during the period of family and medical leave on the same terms as if the [employee] covered individual had continued to work. If family member coverage is provided to the [employee] covered individual, family member coverage must be maintained during the period of family and medical leave. The [employee] covered individual must continue to make any regular contributions to the cost of the health insurance premiums.

(c) Notwithstanding ORS 652.610 (3) and except as provided in paragraph (b) of this subsection, if the employer is required or elects to pay any part of the costs of providing disability, life or other insurance coverage for [an employee] a covered individual during the period of family and medical leave that should have been paid by the [employee] covered individual, the employer may deduct from the [employee’s] covered individual’s pay such amounts upon the [employee’s] covered individual’s return to work until the amount the employer advanced toward the payments is paid. In no event may the total amount deducted for insurance under the provisions of this subsection exceed 10 percent of the [employee’s] covered individual’s gross pay each pay period.

(6) Notwithstanding ORS 652.610 (3), if the employer pays any part of the costs of health, disability, life or other insurance coverage for [an employee] a covered individual under the provisions of subsection (5) of this section, and the [employee] covered individual does not return to employment with the employer after taking family and medical leave, the employer may deduct amounts paid by the employer from any amounts owed by the employer to the [employee] covered individual, or may seek to recover those amounts by any other legal means, unless the [employee] covered individual fails to return to work because of:

(a) A continuation, reoccurrence or onset of a serious health condition that would entitle the [employee] covered individual to leave for one of the purposes specified by ORS 659A.159 (1)(b) or (c); or

(b) Other circumstances beyond the control of the [employee] covered individual.

(7) Nothing in this section shall be construed to require an employer to provide a covered individual with any of the protections described under this section beyond what the covered individual is entitled to under ORS 659A.150 to 659A.186.
