

I think that there are few people in society that understand how much policy can detrimentally alter someone's life, than most folks who are incarcerated. Usually it's a failure of supportive legislation that lead to them being in this situation in the first place