

Submitter: LaKrisha Bloom

On Behalf Of:

Committee: House Committee On Behavioral Health and Health Care

Measure: HB3223

To whom this may concern:

I am a dental professional in Oregon, and I am writing to urge you to vote no on House Bill 3223. This bill, if passed, would forbid the Oregon Board of Dentistry from requiring dental assistants to pass a proficiency exam before working on live clients.

House Bill 3223 is not the solution and it puts dental professionals like me, and the patients I serve, at risk. I might find myself working in an office alongside assistants who are not properly trained, which could drastically increase the chance of harm to themselves, fellow staff, and patients.

Please vote no on HB 3223 because it:

- Increases risk to patient and provider, alike
- Waters down the quality of care received by patients
- Devalues the dental assisting profession
- Could worsen the workforce shortage

Proponents of the bill believe it will solve the dental assistant shortage, but there are dental assistant shortages in every state, including in those states where requirements for entry into the field are much less rigorous than Oregon's. Removing a necessary safety measure will not solve the dental assisting shortage, and it could make it worse.

Removing the exam requirement devalues the dental assisting profession, making it more likely that dental assistants will leave for another career. Studies show that professional credentials increase career commitment and job satisfaction. Eliminating professional requirements does the opposite, while putting patients and providers at risk.

I strongly urge you to vote no on HB 3223.

Thank you for your careful consideration of what is best for the health of Oregonians.
