Measure: SB530

Achieving climate resilience and environmental justice will require an all of government, all of us, multi-pronged approach. SB 530 is an important element in that effort, providing incentives for natural climate solutions on private lands and attending to small landowners' efforts and interests rather than solely favoring the interests (and profits) of large corporate landholders and resource extractors. As an Oregon resident with family invested in agriculture and habitat restoration, I am strongly in favor of this bill.
