I am a daily motorcycle rider. I frequently experience incidents in which distracted drivers approach at a high rate of speed while I'm stopped. This situation forces me to make dangerous and sometimes unachievable evasive maneuvers. What would be a fender bender to a car is potentially fatal to motorcyclists.

The ability to operate between lanes of traffic would help ensure a safe buffer when stopped (adjacent cars provide block from traffic coming up behind) and open up a clear evasive route exit.
