This is the most ridiculous thing I have ever heard.

Diesel powers well over 90 percent of all commercial trucks on the road today. Of that population, approximately 30 percent of today's on-road fleet is powered by the newest generation of clean diesel technology. This new technology is more fuel efficient and lowest in emissions, resulting in 4.2 billion / $2,640 saved per truck per year, and overall emission reductions of 43 million tonnes CO₂, 21 million tonnes NO_x and 1.2 million tonnes PM.

Where on God's green earth do you expect to receive all the building supplies for this glut of new homes you are after? There are 1000 ways to solve the emissions issues and banning diesel is not one of them.
