Testimony for Factory Farm Moratorium

Factory farms promote crowded, inhumane conditions for the animals raised in this food system. Superbugs can form in this type of animal system. Mass production is the goal not the care of the animal. Using food additives that are not good for our human consumption can cause antibiotic resistance for treating human infections. Americans die from superbug infections when no antibiotic works on the infection. Autoimmune diseases for example are seen where the food supply is affected by chemicals in the animal feed. Also contaminants to the environment.

Factory farming displaces farmer & local food production systems. These processes make our health worse not better. Government support for cheap meat is resulting in more animals churned through factory farms. We need better outcomes for quality food raised humanely.

Humane & sustainable farm systems for our food supply. Not more pollution & tortured animals for our future.

I want good quality food for myself and our community.

Please support our local farmers and do what is right for our planet.
