

Submitter: Wendy Phoenix

On Behalf Of:

Committee: House Committee On Climate, Energy, and Environment

Measure: HB3152

I do not think we have enough information on how to reduce emissions without severely impacting our local and global economies. I think it is premature to design a commission around something that doesn't have a clear direction or reliable resources with measurable success. I believe that the way people approach the planet and its resources is an important topic, but a government entity designed to regulate and control something we are still learning so much about seems like it has the potential to make things worse before they could become better.