Oregon's vote-by-mail system has been enormously successful in encouraging more people to vote, ensuring leadership that more accurately reflects our citizenry. Now it's time to take the next step toward real representation by establishing ranked-choice voting in state and federal elections. This model, already in use in four jurisdictions in Oregon, enables voters to choose from among a more diverse set of candidates and to focus on issues rather than personalities. Ranked-choice voting is the only logical way to ensure leadership that truly reflects the electorate. Thank you for your consideration.
