Measure: HB2002

I support this particular piece of legislation because it helps so many in some of the most marginalized communities out there in this country at the moment, who are targeted primarily by people who just refuse to see logic and reason because they're either scared and/or fed lies and misinformation by their masters in the media. The vast majority of their problems are non-issues, such as younger people having gender operations performed on them, when in reality they would require parental consent, multiple letters, and referrals by multiple to health professionals to obtain things as simple as hormone treatment. This is specially in regard to surgeries that may be covered by insurance. There are more important matters to focus on than what is going on in the pants of a stranger who is just trying to live their best life, just like everybody else. People absolutely deserve the assistance, period, regardless of what gender they are or how they may identify, which I can say for certain as somebody who is in a group others want to strip the rights from with smiles and a prayer. Reproductive health and access to it must be funded, ensured, and protected. Don't let blatant hate strip that away. Everybody would lose.
