Measure: HB2005

My message is that the legislature could not do what the voters did. Some of us gathered signatures and endured insults and intimidation to place Measure 114 on the ballot. It passed. Now it needs to be implemented.

We do not wish to place unfair burdens on people who lawfully wish to own a gun. Rather we want every gun owner to consider "responsibility" over "right" and we want those who should not own a gun to be told no.

We want a deranged shooter to be forced to reload rather than be allowed to fire on and on and on. We want training for all gun owners. We want kids to know adults can take action to stop school shootings, that sanity matters. The voters took us forward. Going back serves no one, especially gun owners who suffer most of the gun fatalities themselves! Mostly it is gun owners who die. But the fact the rest of us live in fear, especially our children, means we need to get this done. We actually need to go further, but we sure as heck don't need to go back.
