lawfully licensed and carried concealed firearms are often the first line of defense when a person unlawfully intends to do harm with a firearm. once again your laws only effect the law abiding citizens who would otherwise be able to protect said spaces leaving them more vulnerable to attack. just like making schools sitting duck (gun free) zones (where about 98 percent of mass shooting happen) instead of allowing those that would choose to do so be trained and certified to carry concealed. are you going to remove police (with guns) from public buildings like some are trying to do (and in some cases succeeded) to our schools and turn everything into a sitting duck zone?? this literally does nothing but make everyone LESS safe and does nothing to actually stop crime and is more likely to give criminals with the intent to do harm free reign. do something useful like actually punishing people who break laws and harm people or do straw purchases for felons.
