

Submitter: Laura Cosentino
On Behalf Of:
Committee: House Committee On Judiciary
Measure: HB3390

Animals used on fur farms pace back and forth due to psychological stress from being confined to cages with wire mesh flooring that's painful for their feet and are killed by gassing, neck snapping, poisoning, or anal electrocution. Many animals see each other die slowly due to disease, injuries, or starvation. Companies shouldn't profit off the agony, constant pain, stress, and death of animals. Thank you for having a hearing on HB 3390. I am an Oregon resident in [city/town], and I support this bill. California has banned the sale of new fur products, and Oregon should be next to prevent profiting off animals who are forced to stay inside cages with wire mesh flooring in extreme temperatures and typically killed by anal electrocution, neck breaking, or other crude and gruesome methods.