It is a challenge for me to express my thoughts on keeping our rents from being raised to such an extent that a person has to consider whether to purchase medications or just take them every other day. One never knows from one moment to the next whether they will need surgery as I just unexpectedly had, or another event that is costly. It is so important for me to live within my means and not have to go into debt. Prices are out of control and keeping our rents affordable from my point of view certainly shouldn't be asking too much. Really? I hesitate to use terms like, fair, although price gouging and greed is rampant. I'm hoping that this bill gets the support it deserves.
