Oregon was founded on the fur trade.

The modern day economic benefit created by the fur trade in Oregon is in the millions. Banning it is literally shooting yourself in foot economically.

Preventing animal damage control specialists from utilizing all parts of the animals they have to kill, is also nonsense, and lost economic stimulus.

Your going to need every revenue stream possible to pay for all the socialist welfare programs that continually pop up.

Nothing good for our state comes from this. It just makes us look like bigger left wing nut jobs than we already are.
