I oppose the fur ban. The ban essentially would eliminate trapping and other forms of harvesting fur. No one is getting rich by selling fur. It's just helps the offset of cost of fuel. Trapping and hunting fur is a good way to help balance nature without having the huge swings in population. Everything is heavily regulated already and I don't believe we should kill a tradition that this country was founded on just because some do gooders who don't have anything to base their judgment on but feelings have decided to attack every aspect of country living.
