Measure: SB320

Whomever it may concern,

I am Marlee Gonzales, I am the daughter of Christopher Joesph Gonzales. In a brief testimony on who Chris is as a person and dad, words can't even begin express how amazing he is. He has always been a strong supporter, believer, and encourager for me and many others. I could always count on him to be in my corner, even during the times I couldn't believe in myself. He challenges me to be a better person and to always have a good head on my shoulders. He is always a reminder to be humbled hearted. He helped me strive for my dreams, even if it seemed out of reach! He helped me see that you can turn the impossible into possible! Not only has he made such an impact in my life, and heart! He has also been that for many others! He has always been a hero of mine, how he loves all and gives with a compassionate heart. How he believes in everyone. No matter the obstacles, he is right they're by their side in support, encouragement. He has a way of shining positivity in any situation and seeing the optimism in life.

During his time while being locked up, he has been such a light to other inmates, he has brought encouragement and positivity where very little existed within those walls. He became to be a well-respected and looked up to person by many. He has remained cooperative, while also helping people thrive while they serve their time. He has been a mentor to many that needed it without question. He has always been that person you can rely on and turn to with an undying support and encouragement. I could not be more proud to call him my dad!

Warmest regards,
Marlee
