[HB 3308] is so incredibly inane any further discussion on the matter will cause my brain to ache.

I have a much better idea.

Remove the "Liquor" from the "Oregon Liquor and Cannabis Commission (OLCC)" and authorize the sale of distilled spirits in grocery stores. You might as well. Oregon would save a lot of money not having to invest in Liquor stores, overheads, salaries and benefits of employees.

Alcohol deliveries are going to cost the taxpayers to fund for more state employees to monitor the "Delivery Drivers" to ensure adherence to [HB 3308] mandates.

Oregon has to keep the Cannabis Commission until the Legislature figures out the Narco-traffickers have cornered the marijuana market. Taxes raised from marijuana sales do not cover the costs of law enforcement and cities have become "addicted" to the tax revenues they do raise to fund their expanding services.

Commercial growing and or sales of marijuana should become illegal.

Home gardening of marijuana for personal use is a better choice (except for the person's throat and lungs).
