Measure: SB5506

Co-chairs Steiner and Sanchez, and Members of the Committee,

I urge you to prioritize investments in community resilience. Currently, key investments outlined in the People's Budget to support environmental and economic resilience need to be adequately funded under the Co-Chairs' Budget Framework. Legislators must make these investments now, rather than channeling even more revenue into our already strong and healthy rainy day fund. Frontline communities are most impacted by the climate crisis, including people of color, low-income families, people with disabilities, and people in rural areas. This session we have an opportunity to make communities in every corner of the state more resilient by ensuring they have safe and affordable housing, access to clean energy, and community support before, during, and after climate disasters. The Resilience Agenda legislative solutions will create a more healthy and resilient Oregon where everyone can thrive. I urge you to prioritize a strategic climate budget that includes: - Building and strengthening community efforts to prepare for and recover from climate disasters through Community Resilience Hubs (House Bill 2990). -Secures a clean-energy future through the Resilient, Efficient Buildings Package (Senate Bills 868, 869, 870, and 871). We need state funding to ensure that state agencies are adequately funded and capacitated to implement existing climate programs and policies, while also Investing in new programs that build physical, social, and ecological well-being, especially in the communities that are most highly and frequently impacted. Making Investments in our future today will create more resilient and financially stable communities before we are faced with the next economic crisis. Many Oregonians are still on the pathway to recovery after multiple crises, and we cannot leave them behind. Thank you for the opportunity to submit testimony in support of a strong, strategic, and resilience-focused 2023-25 biennium budget.
