Measure: HB3501

While I understand the desire to create safer situations for the homeless. At the end of the day, you cannot always help people that do not want to be helped. Giving them the right to sue the city that, let's be honest, they are frequently trashing is absolutely ridiculous! What about the businesses and citizens who's world's have been rocked due to damages done by homeless people? Can they sue the city too? Think about the precedent that sets. They already get away with so much in this city! Recognize that people are angry. Many of us do NOT want bills like this passing, we want encampments OUT of the city. How hard would it be to move encampments to the end of the max line where hardly anyone lives? Would that not be a win win for everyone?
