SJR 33

To Whom It May Concern:

When you have the law, argue the law
When you have the facts, argue the facts
When you have neither, speak from the heart

-1-SJR-33 is an omnibus bill containing several provisions that are related under the rubric of "rights." I believe including all in the same bill is an erroneous legislative maneuver.

-2-Each of these provisions has a moral component. The moral gravity varies from moderate to severe.

-3-This bill gives voice to expand rights for three groups: (i) those who desire to expand the definition of marriage; (ii) those who are desirous of changing their gender and gender identification; (iii) women who choose to end their pregnancies. I recognize that there is considerable suffering and even bias and prejudice against some. That angers me. However, I believe these injustices should not be resolved by constitutional interventions.

-4-This bill does not give voice to the unborn. This is morally wrong.

I firmly recommend that you vote no on SJR-33.

Very sincerely,

David A. Nardone, MD (retired)
