I absolutely disagree with abortion with one exception and one exception only...if the life of the mother is at risk, such as a tubal pregnancy. If a person's life isn't at risk, no life should be taken.

We are all created in the image of God.

I have friends that were the result of a mother being raped. They are amazing people. The mere fact that they were conceived in a harsh matter does not make them harsh people.

Getting an abortion should not be a means of birth control.

I've known so many people personally that have had an abortion and regretted it afterwards. I've also known a gal that ended up not being able to have children when they actually wanted a family due to previous abortions they had. To have an abortion is to straight up kill a child.

My first child was born out of wedlock. When I told her "sperm donor" that I was pregnant, he wanted me to get an abortion. I told him NO! He wanted no part of me, or the child. His loss! I'm blessed to be a grandmother because I chose to give birth! And for that, I'm absolutely grateful that I didn't have an abortion.

It's not a right. It's not a privilege. It's murder, plain and simple.

Thank you for hearing my voice.
God bless y'all abundantly!
