At a time when so many are financially insecure and spread too thin with low wages and skyrocketing living costs - raising the rent more than ever before seems immoral and exploitative. The last thing we need is more people homeless and priced out of safe living spaces. Having my rent raised higher and higher when no improvements or changes are being made to my living conditions is frustrating. My employer gave everyone pay cuts across the board rather than raises this past year and the timing of such a large rent increase couldn't be worse.
