Hi Ned

Don't worry we took care of it, I just want to make sure folks have guidance.

Thanks again
Belit

Dear Belit:

I hope you are doing well. Thanks so much for bringing this to our attention. I am looking into this now – and will provide clear guidance to our teams on this kind of expense. How do we reimburse for the costs that were incurred because of this?

Thanks,

Ned Clements

Hi Ned and Nathan

I think we just need to provide clarification or guidance to Dynamic Life Teams about this kind of expense.

Thank You
Belit

Belit,

This is the e-mail that Kim had sent to us when we became aware of this concern. As I was thinking about it though we have been reimbursing them $385 per week in July (and will be for August) so even if they were spending $300 a week that would have been covered in our reimbursement.

Thoughts?

Thank you,

Julia Rascon

Importance: High

Hi Julie,
Julia and I met with [REDACTED] today to discuss the slow transition of DL out of the current Air BnB 24/7, and some other things. DL has overall been a good experience for the family, good support and they still want it. But, it came up during this conversation that since the grandparents have been staying in the houses with [REDACTED] and DL staff (just over a month now), the grandparents have been paying for all the groceries (we are thinking approx. $300/week) and feeding Dynamic Life staff and [REDACTED]. The DL team members will tell the grandparents they don't have the "card" to purchase food. [REDACTED] mentioned getting up in the morning and going to make breakfast and the food they had purchased was gone/eaten, if they want to eat chips or watermelon they just do (this was an example [REDACTED] gave). [REDACTED] doesn't seem to mind, and enjoys cooking for people, but we thought DL was to be getting groceries to support them and [REDACTED]. And, not having a "card", we are not sure what exactly this means. [REDACTED] brought up when they were in a hotel with DL this was not the case, and they were eating out more. At this time our hope is to possibly reimburse [REDACTED] for approximately $1500, and find out what is going on with regard to the situation with DL and not having a card, having family pay for their food etc. Please let us know your thoughts on this.

Julia, please add any information etc. that I have missed.
