Measure: HJR201

Dear House Committee

As a long time Portland resident, and someone who has grown children who are struggling to afford the purchase of a home, the very idea of imposing a statewide property tax is deeply troubling. Imposing additional tax burdens on young persons and families trying to afford a home is unfair and regressive. Even if there is a higher income threshold it adds additional costs to home affordability and stunts the ability to move up to better housing for families in Oregon. I urge you to reject HJR 201.

Thanks you,

Steven Holland
